Quiz on DBMS and SQL

Date of Activity: 27 Aug 21

Class: BCA 2nd Sem "A" section.

Lecturer Name: Ms Sushma G S

Objective:

- Improve or expanding one's knowledge of things, in Database management system and SQL
- Enables students to think from different angles or simply 'to think out of the box'
- Aids team building process
- Provokes healthy debate among participants.

Rules of Activity:

- Compulsory participation for every student.
- 5 Teams are formed.
- There will be 3 rounds

1. General Round 1 :

In this round each team has its own quota of 4 questions and other questions passed to it from the previous team that did not answer.

A team gets 30 seconds to answer the question intended for it, and is awarded 20 points for answering it. If the team, the question intended for, gives a wrong answer, the quiz master will give the correct answer.

Questions will not be passed to next team

There is no negative marking for wrong answers.

2. General Round 2:

In this round each team has its own quota of 4 questions and other questions passed to it from the previous team that did not answer.

A team gets 30 seconds to answer the question intended for it, and is awarded 20 points for answering it. If the team, the question intended for, gives a wrong answer, the quiz master will give the correct answer.

If the team that the question intended for passes it. The next team/s gets 15 seconds to answer it and is awarded 10 points for the right answer.

The team members can discuss before giving the answer. If a team cannot answer a question they can pass it or after 30 seconds it gets automatically passed to the next team.

If a team is answering a question and the time passes, then the team gets to complete the answer and is awarded points for the right answer.

There is no negative marking for wrong answer

3. Rapid Fire Round

In this round each team will be asked 10 questions one after another.

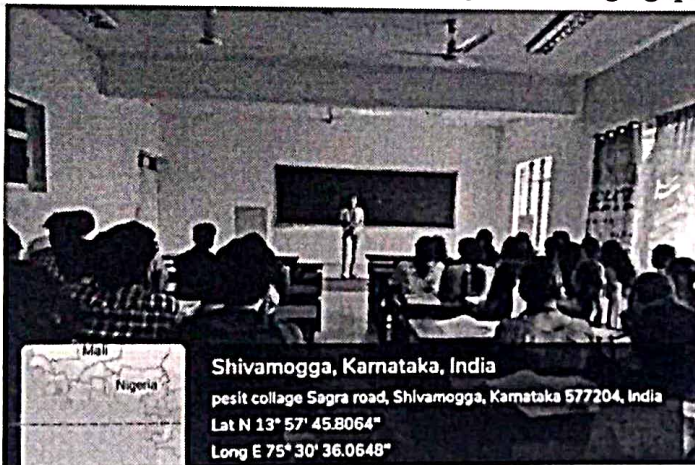

On the immediate completion of a question, each team gets 5 seconds to answer it.

If a team is not able to answer a question, they can pass it for the next question. There is no team discussion in this round. 10 points are awarded for the correct answer.

Negative points for the wrong answer.

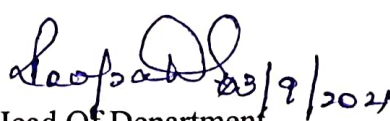

Outcome:

- Changed scope of learning: Since questions are based on-syllabus and require critical thinking and extensive research. Students came to know concepts in detail
- Students have formed teams while participating in quiz, and it has given them an opportunity to hone their teamwork skills
- Students are able to retain information easily
- Students are able to identify knowledge gaps and we have suggested to work on the same

Quiz on PL SQL and Data Warehousing

Date of Activity: 25 Aug 21

Class: BCA 4th Sem "B" section.

Lecturer Name: Ms Sushma G S

Objective:

- Improve or expand one's knowledge of things, in PL SQL and Data Warehousing.
- Enables students to think from different angles or simply 'to think out of the box'.
- Aids team building process.
- Provokes healthy debate among participants.

Rules of Activity:

- Compulsory participation for every student.
- 5 Teams are formed.
- There will be 3 rounds

1. General Round 1 :

In this round each team has its own quota of 4 questions and other questions passed to it from the previous team that did not answer.

A team gets 30 seconds to answer the question intended for it, and is awarded 20 points for answering it. If the team, the question intended for, gives a wrong answer, the quiz master will give the correct answer.

Questions will not be passed to next team

There is no negative marking for wrong answers.

2. General Round 2:

In this round each team has its own quota of 4 questions and other questions passed to it from the previous team that did not answer.

A team gets 30 seconds to answer the question intended for it, and is awarded 20 points for answering it. If the team, the question intended for, gives a wrong answer, the quiz master will give the correct answer.

If the team that the question intended for passes it. The next team/s gets 15 seconds to answer it and is awarded 10 points for the right answer.

The team members can discuss before giving the answer. If a team cannot answer a question they can pass it or after 30 seconds it gets automatically passed to the next team.

If a team is answering a question and the time passes, then the team gets to complete the answer and is awarded points for the right answer.

There is no negative marking for wrong answer

3. Rapid Fire Round

In this round each team will be asked 10 questions one after another.

On the immediate completion of a question, each team gets 5 seconds to answer it.

If a team is not able to answer a question, they can pass it for the next question. There is no team discussion in this round. 10 points are awarded for the correct answer.

Negative points for the wrong answer.

Contributors:

Bhoomika R Murthy

Outcome:

- Changed scope of learning: Since questions are based on-syllabus and require critical thinking and extensive research. Students came to know concepts in detail
- Students have formed teams while participating in quiz, and it has given them an opportunity to hone their teamwork skills
- Students are able to retain information easily
- Students are able to identify knowledge gaps and we have suggested to work on the same

Report on Class Activity

Date of Activity : 24-11-2021
Class : VI Semester BBA
Name of the Activity: Case Study Analysis
Faculty Name : Mr. Abhishek S

Objectives:

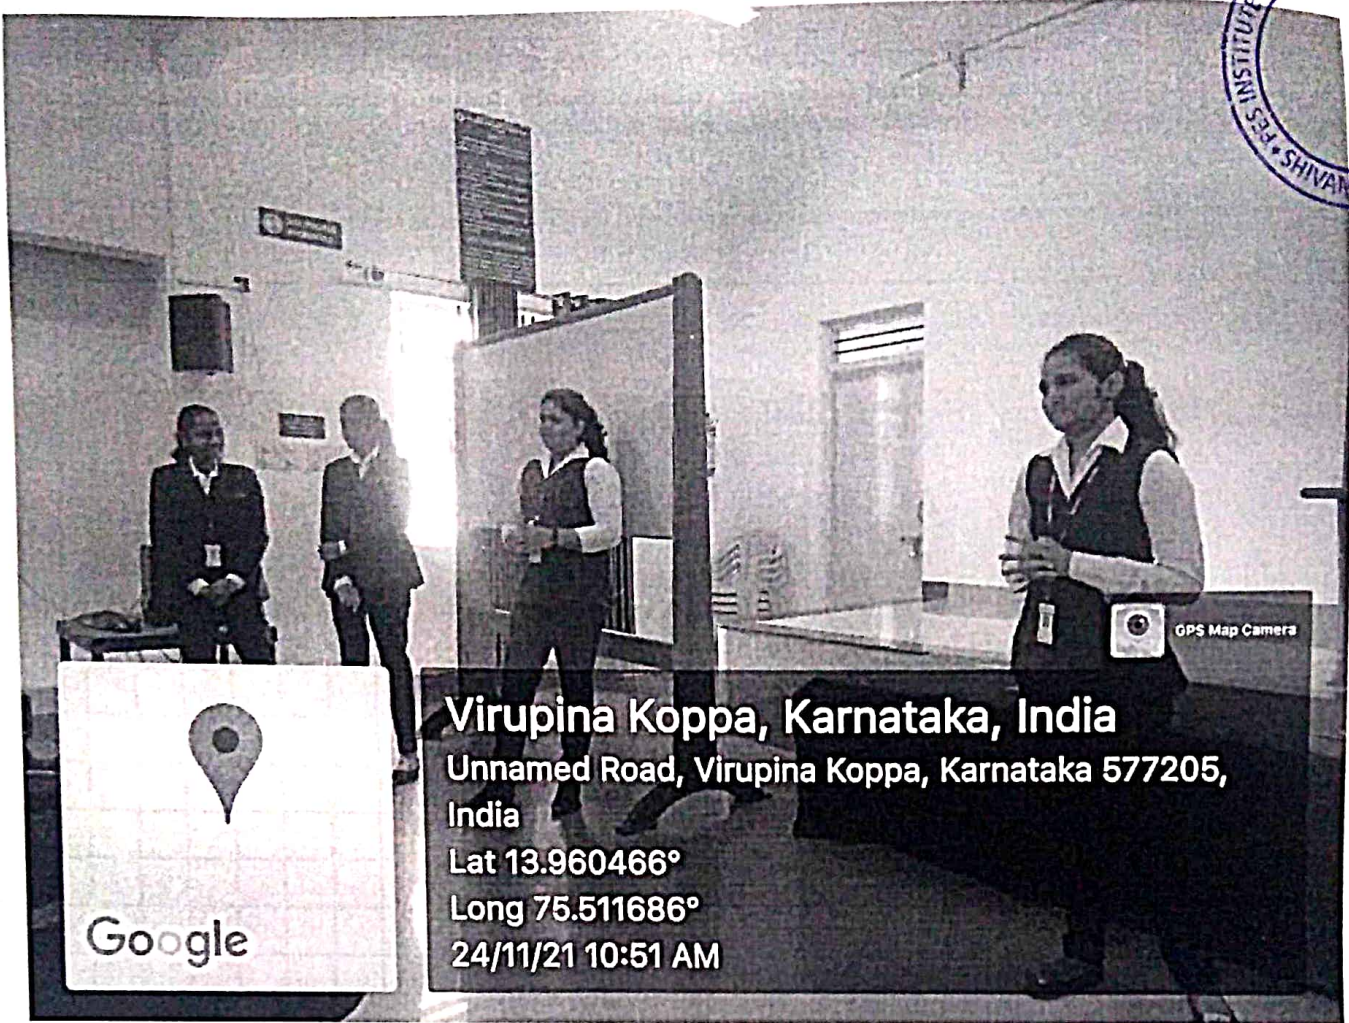

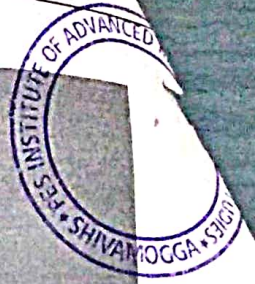

- To make students to learn practical applicability of research methodology
- To make students to understand the use of Research Methodology for finding solutions in real life problems

Rules of Activity:

- Compulsory Participation.
- The students are divided into groups of 4 members each.
- The students were given a time of 10 minutes to analyze the given case study.
- The students need to present the identified findings and provide suggestions before the audience.

Outcome:

The activity was cheered by all the students. The students learned and enjoyed through their active participation. Every student actively participated in the session. Different groups identified different findings and provided their own suggestions for that case. The activity helped the students to understand how effectively they can apply the research methodologies to solve the real life problems. A single case was given to all the groups.

Case Study Activity #1

John is the most active student in my kindergarten class. He tends to be very disruptive when my faculty advisor is teaching the class, and even more so when I am teaching. This student challenges everything that I ask of him. When I acknowledge a student for a behavior that I like, John will do the exact opposite of that behavior. He seems to have absolutely no respect for his fellow students or for me. I really would like to focus on John throughout this course because I feel that I need to learn different strategies to work with him and other students like him.

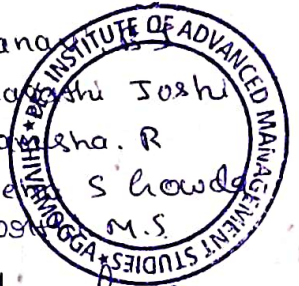

How do I feel about John?

I am completely uncomfortable with him. He makes me feel powerless because he constantly challenges my authority. At this point, I do not know how to respond to his behavior in the classroom. It seems that both my faculty advisor and I have used every strategy we know to work with him, but nothing works. What I find most difficult is that I am always questioning myself about the way that I manage the classroom. It is obvious to me that something has to change. Unfortunately I don't feel that I can relate to John.

What do you know about this student so far?

From what I know, we have very different life experiences. He comes from a working class family. His mother and biological father have been divorced for the majority of John's life. He now lives with his mother and stepfather. John knows about his biological father and was recently able to visit him. As far as I know, other than the recent visit, John has very little contact with him. He calls his stepfather "Dad". From what I can see, "Dad" does all of the disciplining in their home. This is John's second year in kindergarten and his second year with my faculty advisor. Most of the other students look up to him and follow his lead. Often times a student is asked to choose a friend to help them with something. About six of the boys in our class would automatically choose John to help them. Outside at recess time, I can see that John is the leader of the pack. He tells the other students what to do and if they don't comply, he gets the other students to run away from the one who won't comply. There have been many times when I go outside to meet the students after lunch only to find one of them crying. Four out of five times the students are crying because of something that John said to them.

Another thing that I know about John is that he has been diagnosed with ADHD. After many struggles between my faculty advisor, the school psychologist, John's doctor, and his parents, John is now supposedly taking medication each school morning. We have met with John's parents and the school psychologist to talk about different methods for working with him. All of the ideas suggested required cooperation between the teachers at school and the parents at home. Over about a three-month period we tried about three of the different strategies that were suggested. Now we are back where we started from with no idea of how to make this work. I hate to be so negative when talking about a student, so I do have a positive. John can be an excellent helper. He has been in the classroom longer than I have. He is very familiar with where everything is in the classroom and he is always more than eager to help. I would jump on this and draw from this strength, but when I ask him to help too often, he begins to think that it is his job to help and nobody else's. I feel frustrated and want to find a way to work with John that will benefit him, the class, and myself. I've got quite a task on my hands, but if I take it activity by activity, hopefully I will come up with some positive strategies.

Findings

- 1) John was depressed ^{because} as he didn't get the love from his parents as John's parents got depressed.
- 2) John did receive any father's love & mother's love together. Because his mother & father not living together. He don't know what is parent's love. So he brought up in ruddy way ^{without any love that's why} & he is ruddy.
- 3) John didn't get proper guidelines from anyone. This may be reason for his behaviour.
- 4) Maybe he didn't get love or guidelines even from his teachers in school.
- 5) John is a small boy, this is the age where he should learn everything to lead his life in society when he grow up. Ex:- how to behave with elders, friends etc. These things are thought by parents & teachers. But John don't know all these things because his parents & teachers didn't teach him from his small age.

Suggestions

- 1) His parents should spend more time with John.
 - 2) John should get love and care from Both the Mother & father.
 - 3) His parents and teacher should not leave him lonely.
 - 4) Parents should keep him busy with the work what he likes to do.
 - 5) Parents should take John outside to show to John how people are living in their life.
By doing this he may come to know that human beings are social animals.
 - 6) Introduce John to his friends or make friends to John & tell him that this is your friend.
Both should be good to each other.
 - 7) Teacher should make council to John & find out what John is going through.
 - 8) Teacher should discuss about what John is going through with his parents
- To solve ^{change} John's behaviour they have to do according to the above points written.

Case Study

Findings:

- John is a most active student
- He is from Kindergarten
- John may not be interested in studies
- He may be teased by his friends
- He might be mentally disturbed as his mother divorced his biological father and married another man
- No strategies were worked made by his teachers

Suggestions:

- Finding out John's real interest, it may be sports drawing etc.
- Counselling him and his parents
- Giving him space rather than asking him to tell his problems

- To evaluate the impact of various Anthropogenic activities which is harmful to biodiversity and creating pollution
- To know the importance of flora and fauna in the sustainable development of environment.
- To identify the comprehensive conservation plans for the endangered / endemic / economically important biotic species.
- To understand the factors which contaminates natural resources and affects environment
- To motivate students to participate in such events to develop good presentation skills and overcome the issues in stage performance.

Rule of this Activity:

1. Forming a group and collecting valuable information about the given topic.
2. Each group should not exceed the number 6 members.
3. Each group is provided with 20 minutes of time.
4. Given topic should consist of introduction, issues raising problems, conservation methods to follow for sustainability.
5. Powerpoint presentation should be given with appropriate images and videos.

Total number of Students participated: 110

Outcome:

Two teams of six students each actively involved themselves in this activity and showed their interest in the subject. It has motivated their minds towards the subject and helped them to put a view on the biodiversity and its conservation and also on environmental pollution and controlling techniques. In the first topic, the value of biodiversity has been highlighted by showing the various species available in the ecosystem, the activities causing the extinction of rare, endemic and endangered species in the ecosystem and how they can be conserved using In-situ and Ex-situ Conservation techniques. In the second topic, information has been given on environmental pollution and its sources to cause the same. They have highlighted the various aspects of environmental pollution through air, water, soil, marine, sound, thermal and nuclear pollution. The study was made on various issues causing environmental pollution and what are the measures can be taken to prevent environmental pollution.

Class Activity on Comparison between OSI AND TCP/IP

Class: VI Semester BCA A Sec

Date of Activity: 11/08/2021

Lecturer Name: Mr. Darshan P R

Objective:

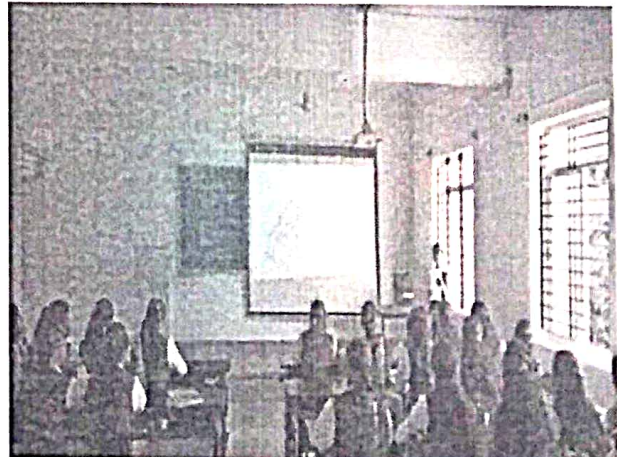

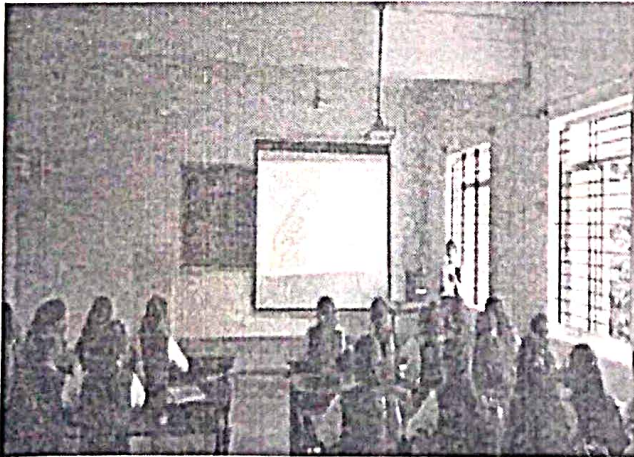

- The objective is to understand key difference Between OSI And TCP/IP Architecture
- To Analyse Layers of the TCP/IP and OSI in detail
- To understand the Interconnection and Communication with systems and also the size of the OSI and TCP/IP header
- To understand the working of the transport layer of the OSI and TCP/IP

Rules of Activity:

- Compulsory participation for every student

Outcome:

- Students have understood key difference between OSI And TCP/IP Architecture
- Students have analysed layers of the TCP/IP and OSI
- Students have understood the working of the transport layer and header of OSI and TCP/IP

Presentation on Graph Theory - Differentiating Hamiltonian and Euler Graph

Date of Activity: 7/8/2021
Lecturer Name: Ms Reshma V J

Class: BCA 2nd Sem "A" section

Objective:

- Understand the definition and significance of Graph Theory
- Discuss applications of Graph
- Examine how Graph is used and understand the advantages of Hamiltonian and Euler Graph

Rules of Activity:

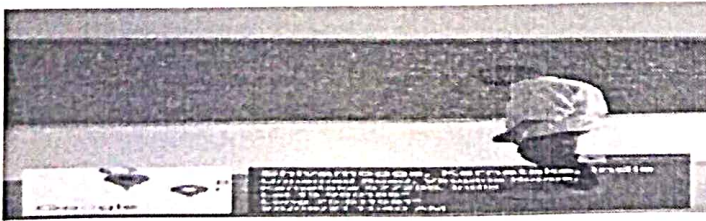

- Compulsory participation for every student.

Contributors:

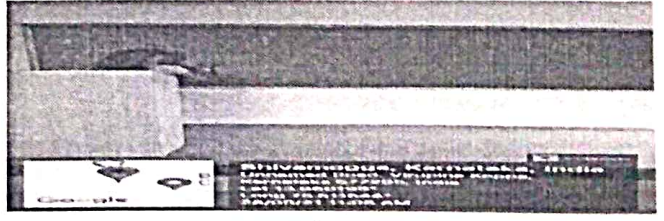

- Ruchitha G U
- Sadaf banu
- Divya U

Outcome:

- This Activity encourages students to design Hamiltonian and Euler Graph.
- Students actively involved themselves in the activity and they learnt about advantages and applications of Graph theory.
- Learnt, practiced and acquired the skills necessary to deliver effective presentation with clarity and impact.

Online Quiz on Relational Data Model

Date of Activity: 03/07/2021

Class: II Semester BCA B-Sec

Faculty Name: Ms. Roopa D. S.

Objective:

- To evaluate the knowledge of Relational Data Model
- Strengthen the Knowledge of Relational Data Model
- To encourage students to take part in competitive examinations or Placement activities.

Outcome:

- Students were motivated and engaged
- A platform has been created to identify gaps in knowledge and build confidence
- Students doubts were clarified which made them to understand the concepts clearly
- A platform has been created to enrich student's knowledge and help the students to attend campus recruitment process.

Quiz on Transactions, Recovery and PL SQL

Date of Activity: 02 Mar 21

Class: BCA 3rd Sem "B" section.

Lecturer Name: Ms Sushma G S

Objective:

- Improve or expanding one's knowledge of things, in Database management system and PL SQL
- Enables students to think from different angles or simply 'to think out of the box'
- Aids team building process
- Provokes healthy debate among participants.

Rules of Activity:

- Compulsory participation for every student.
- 5 Teams are formed.
- There will be 3 rounds

1. General Round 1 :

In this round each team has its own quota of 4 questions.

A team gets 30 seconds to answer the question intended for it, and is awarded 20 points for answering it. If the team, the question intended for, gives a wrong answer, the quiz master will give the correct answer.

Questions will not be passed to next team

There is no negative marking for wrong answers.

2. General Round 2:

In this round each team has its own quota of 4 questions and other questions passed to it from the previous team that did not answer.

A team gets 30 seconds to answer the question intended for it, and is awarded 20 points for answering it. If the team, the question intended for, gives a wrong answer, the quiz master will give the correct answer.

If the team that the question intended for passes it. The next team/s gets 15 seconds to answer it and is awarded 10 points for the right answer.

The team members can discuss before giving the answer. If a team cannot answer a question they can pass it or after 30 seconds it gets automatically passed to the next team.

If a team is answering a question and the time passes, then the team gets to complete the answer and is awarded points for the right answer.

There is no negative marking for wrong answer.

3. Rapid Fire Round

In this round each team will be asked 10 questions one after another.

On the immediate completion of a question, each team gets 5 seconds to answer it.

If a team is not able to answer a question, they can pass it for the next question. There is no team discussion in this round. 10 points are awarded for the correct answer.

Negative points for the wrong answer.
